A Request for Aid

has requested military aid from America's NATO allies. This was revealed at the weekend by Prime Minister Pearson, who was among the recipients of a letter from the president, asking for help.

According to Mr. Pearson, the United States wants only "token" military aid at this time and the reasoning behind this is plain to see. The United States desperately needs wider approval for its Viet Nam policy than has been afforded by the slim outside support that has been given by a few foreign nations. At the same time only token support is needed because the United States already possesses the military strength required for at least the latest phase of escalation of the

When questioned by newsmen as to what Canada's response to the request would be, Mr. Pearson was somewhat non-informative—as well he might be in a difficult situation like this. He said his reply to the president would be given "in due course." He also pointed out that Canada's position was dissimilar to other NATO countries since Canada is still a member of the Viet Nam truce team set up after the 1954 Geneva Convention on Indo-China.

However, if Mr. Pearson was unable to give a fast answer to this

Mr. Martin said that the American request was not for military aid and, indeed, "did not involve any suggestions for assistance by Canada of a kind that Canada is not now providing." Present assistance consists of medical aid, flour and educational and scientific help.

There are, of course, many ways in which the phrase "token military aid" can be interpreted and it could include the medical help which Mr. Martin said Canada is now supplying. But on an issue as grave as the possibility of direct armed participation in the Viet Nam war, the Canadian people are entitled to know, to be kept as intimately informed as possible, as to the real nature of President Johnson's request. The government cannot back into the question and must not confuse the people about what is at

For Canada to go to war in Viet Nam, even in a "token" way, would be a momentous decision. Walls That Aren't Jericho

THE big questions about the next phase in Viet Nam is whether it is merely going to be a blown-up version of the phase now coming to a close. Jericho is about the only historical precedent for the phase of the Vietnamese war that is now ending. Joshua-Johnson has been marching around the ramparts, blowing his parts, blowing his trumpets for might and main; but unfor-

Alsop tunately he has had Alsop no help from tunnel-digging engineers, let alone a vengeful deity, to make the walls fall down on schedule.

In other words, this phase that began with the Pleiku incident has been marked by a maximum parade of power, and a minimum application of power. Huge en-claves of American troops and equip-ment have been built up along the coast of South Viet Nam; but these American troops in the south have rarely been ommitted to any combat above the evel of a local skirmish.

This has done much psychological-litical harm, because of the stark contrast with the South Vietnamese Army which is daily being heavily engaged and suffering really fearful casualties. And one may be sure that the mere parade of almost unused American power has made exactly the same impression on the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong as it has on the soldiers of the South Vietnese Army.

So far as the rest of Canada is concerned, a Quebec which is eco-Familiarization Period nomically more healthy and has

To be sure, Ambassador Maxwell Taylor strongly recommended that the U.S. units in South Viet Nam be allowed at least 90 days to familiarize themselves with the terrain before being committed on a major scale. This may be the explanation of the limited use made of these units up to now. Hence the pattern of the bombing of North Viet Nam is much more instructive.

Concerning the trifling tit-for-tat after

Not all of Quebec's discontent can be measured in economic terms, the summer episode in the Gulf of Ton-kin, the president is widely quoted as boasting, in effect, that he had made a eunuch of Ho Chi Minh. Beginning with the Pleiku incident, U.S. planes of course, but a good deal of it can and there is room for hope that as the province gains in economic strength, within the framework of have now been bombing North Vietnathe Canadian nation, the bonds of mese targets for nearly six months; and the claims made for this bombing are about on a par with the president's Post-Tonkin Gulf boast.

hing of the geography of North Viet Nam. The heart of the country is the rice producing Red River Delta—the re-gion around Hanoi and Phong. West of Hanoi to the Laos border, there is an under-populated mountainous area, where it is only possible to grow the poverty crops and opium. And south along the coast to the demilitarized zone, there extends another long, narrow finger of territory without much relevance to the rest of the country.

The mountain region west of Hanoi and the southern coastal finger are both comparable with West Virginia, if one vants to get the relationship right. We should be indignant, humiliated, what you will, if any enemy bombed West

Virginia's bridges, railroads and roads. But in the end, we would certainly not be alarmed—we might even begin to laugh in our sleeves—if a powerful enemy made all sorts of statements about his bloody boldness and iron reso-DENNIS THE MENACE lution, and then just vent on bombing West Virginia, day after day after day.

Until very recently, that is what has been happening. The attack in February were trifling. The tempo of attacks did not really pick up until oril and May. It was not until June hat the first, very tentative attacks were made outside the West Virginia-like are. It was not until July that the first tenta ve missions were directed against elemen of the major target systems in the North Vietnamese heartland. Even now, the heartland has not really been penetrated.

We are being told by people who do not know the geography and have not studied the target-patterns, that "bomb-ing the north is useless." The answer is that the north has not really been bombed yet—not for the purpose of destroying the population, but simply to take out the significant military target systems.

The air mission that evoked a missileresponse was one of the first dozen or so that probed for anything really vital beyond the West Virginia-like region.

In an interview given to "Newsweek", the president recently said that the U.S. needs "power on land, power in the air, power wherever it's necessary. We've got to commit it, and this will convince them we mean it." Unhappily, "they" were supposed to be convinced by the show-bombings of the north and the earlier movements of U.S. troops into South

No one can tell, therefore, whether the president now intends an even more showy parade of power, with continued minimum application of this power. This time, it seems likely, Lyndon Johnson really means business. If he does not, however, the darkest news must be "On the one hand," he reports, "the industry is riding the crest of a wave of increased prosperity. There is new production, new technology and new ideas in this, the industry's fifth straight year of generally good business. million mark for the first time. The average figure for 1945-62 was 34 millions; for 1963, 52.5 millions, for 1964, $97 millions. This does not sound like the march of doom.

At 85,000, employment is up by 13,000 compared to 1960, with the biggest gain in the last year. The industry confidently expects to meet the growth objectives set by the Economic Council of Canada. (Was this point emphasized, one won-

Strength Through Mergers

According to the Financial Post, the industry has acquired greater financial strength and stability as a result of mergers. It has achieved impressive success in the development of new products. It counts upon an even stronger demand for clothing in the next few years because of the population surge in the age groups 15-29 which are notably

We read of a "booming new demand'? for carpets, with mills shipping in ex-cess of $50 millions annually and accounting for 90 per cent of the indicated

The "big growth," despite Mr. Gordon's concern, is in "man-mades." But even in cottons, which suffered last year from import competition, the Post finds that conditions have "settled somewhat" and that activity is up slightly."

What the industry told the government, we can only conjecture. What it told the Financial Post is truly thoughtprovoking. A survey of textile firms showed that 64 per cent expected increased sales in the next six months as compared with last year. For next year, 72 per cent predicted higher sales while 19 per cent expected them to continue at about the 1965 level.

Made Gains

Optimism must, indeed, have been in the air even before the government answered the industry's appeal. For in the period January-June, 50 per cent of companies enjoyed business gains while 43 per cent found sales about the same as in 1964. In the case of the "man mades," which has been directed to the attention of the Japanese government, we have it from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, that shipments were up 7.6 per cent in the first five months

Mr. Chiasson, noting that there has en strong import competition for a number of years, comments reasonably that "this is one reason why firms still in business are doing well.

There is, however, the disturbing mat-ter of the industry's split personality. It may look well; it may be enjoying good business and reaping higher profits; but it doesn't feel well so long as is not assured by the government of particular share of the domestic

In the case of Japan. Mr. Gordon Japan will be permitted to export exactly 229,000 dozen cotton sports shirts, 101,000 dozen cotton dress shirts and work shirts and 44,000 dozen synthetic shirts (of all types).

Evidently the industry will not be saisfied unless the same 'voluntary' quotas are imposed on every other counwhich has the audacity to ship shirts to Canada.

WATCHING the Conservative leader-W ship contest was a little like watching the relatives scrapping over their inheritance while the little old lady upstairs was still hanging on, The little old lady, of course, is the Labor government, which is doing what it can do to dig in for a long haul. But the Conservative party went through the process of electing a new leader for all the world as if it were electing a prime minister. What is more to the point, most observers seemed to see the eontest in the same way. Indeed, the tendency among political writers in the past week has been to treat the Conservative party's opposi-tion status as a mere technicality that the new leader, Mr. Edward Heath, would take care of in short order. And it is this attitude, more than any overt criticism, which best illustrates the pres-ent source condition of the Laker curve. ent sorry condition of the Labor govern

One of Many Clouds

From Prime Minister Harold Wilson's standpoint, the prospect of facing a reinvigorated and election-minded opposition is only one cloud on a horizon that has rapidly been filling with clouds. The latest, a real thunderhead, appeared on Tuesday, a few hours after the Conser-vatives elected their new leader.

In a statement to the House of Commons, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. James Callaghan, revealed that Britain is in for another dose of deflation and that the government was postponing implementation of several key election promises. For once, Mr. Heath didn'thave to screen on his fixed, public, didn'thave to screw on his fixed, public-occasion smile. It was with a smile of genuine delight that he strode before the television cameras on Tuesday night to make the most of the government's dis-

Mr. Callaghan's announcement meant that the first battle between the govern-ment and new opposition will be on the very terrain Mr. Heath has selected for very terrain Mr. Heath has selected for his campaign to topple Mr. Wilson. With Britain's economic difficulties thrust squarely into the foreground, the way has now been cleared for the initial confrontation between an opposition leader who is a cunning, hard-hitting economics expert and a prime minister who is a cunning, hard-hitting economics expert.

Yet despite the almost mirror-like similarities between the two chief an-tagonists, it doesn't look like an equal

One reason is that the familiar lack of unity on the government side will no longer be offset by comparable divisions among the Conservatives. Mr. Wilson will be hampered in his attempts to deal with the opposition by the need to keep his own benches in order. Another reason is that, man for man, Parliament's Labor members are not so well equipped to do battle on technical economical issues as the squadrons of company directors and assorted businessmen on the other side

Mr. Wilson may have tacked together an adequate team of experts to lead his defence, but the recent debate on the finance bill demonstrated anew that the government suffers from the failure of many of its supporters to sustain their enthusiasm during long, intricate de

However, the key reason for predicting an increasingly harrowing time for the government is that Labor has been thrown heavily onto the defensive by its long string of economic failures. British politics have, in fact, come full circle. As last year, the government is sagging under the weight of the country's economic ills. As last year, the oppo-sition is manoeuvring for the kill. One can enly conclude that when the showdown comes the result will be much the

During the recent postmen's strike it occurred to me that of all the letters not being delivered, most did not need delivery at all. If my household is cal, and I think it is, a majority of the pieces of mail received is third-class mail trying to separate me from money to somebody else's profit. more to distribute than is paid in postage, the difference being made up by vernment subsidy, which is paid for the taxpayer, who is me. If I do not pay my federal taxes I go to jail. Therefore, my freedom is contingent on my willingness to pay for the ballyhoo by which some salesman hopes to sucker

My suggestion is that there should be no third class mail, and that the postage for first and second class mail should be sufficient to cover the ex-penses of the post office department. This would not work any hardship on anyone except the hucksters. It would simply mean that people got what they paid for, a philosophy which I am sorry to say will probably gain little support in our present society.-T. F. Rose, 210 Yarrow Building .

I have watched the liberation that comes to students and Sunday school teachers, when they discover that to believe in the Bible they are not committed to a threedecker universe.

New Curriculum opens the scriptures to us and helps us see how God's word is known in the truth of Biblical myths, legends, history, poetry and wisdom

The Graham group contradicts everything we are try-ing to accomplish through the New Curriculum. They are ventriloquists of the nineteenth century, trying to turn the clock back on theo-logical and biblical scholar-

Biblical Ignorance

First, the theological comings. Graham missioners set forth a Christology that denote Briefly, that is docetic. Briefly, that means they portray Jesus in such ridiculously divine lan-guage, that there is no real humanity in him. Their plan of salvation emphasizes individual skin-saving that leaves a truncated gospel and fails to do justice to the corporate nature of salva-

Then, they compound the trouble with their doctrine of the church. They under-line the importance of saving people out of the world ghetto—the church. Once there, the convert busies himself with pletism and sav-

'The Bible Says'

Instead of biblical scholarships Graham and Ford use the approach, "The Bible Says" and leave it at that. Nothing is said about the Biblé being composed partly of legend and myth and allegory, and so Christians conto hear the word of

The appearance of delicate treatment of the situation in both capitals testifies to the depth of the Viet Nam crisis and the reluctance of the two great nuclear powers to gen-erate dangerous tension between them.

SKITTISHNESS

Soviet skittishness has become obvious. The Soviet press paid scant attention to the news that U.S. planes attacked antiaircraft missile sites in North Viet Nam, installations presumably placed there by the Soviets and possibly manned by their tech-

The Communist party news paper Pravda carried two paragraphs: a Tass news agency dispatch from Hanol at the bottom of page five made no mention of missile sites. It simply reported a "pirate raid" by American planes on "densely populated regions."

Izvestia of the same day made no mention of the action.

SHOWS CAUTION

President Johnson said Wednesday he knows of nothing the U.S. government has in mind which might excite So viet distrust or provoke the Soviet Union. The whole tenor of his press conference was distinctly low-key, and the picture he displayed of U.S. policy in Viet Nam was of carefully measured

And the Kremlin leadership shows no enthusiasm for heat-ing up the atmosphere, despite strident scolding from the Chinese.

DECEPTION "What they (the Soviets)

call support for Viet Nam and aid to Viet Nam are just for deceiving others," complained Peking newspaper this "Their real aim is to bring the Viet Nam question into the orbit of Soviet-U.S. co-operation for world dominanamese people's struggle against U.S. aggression.

The evidence seems to indi-cate the Soviet Union and most of its European allies would like to see some ap-proach to the conference table worked out. The problem is how to leap the hurdle of Chinese obstruction.

KOSYGIN 'UNHAPPY'

Canadian Parliament members who visited Premier Alexei Kosygin Thursday resported him "unhappy about the international situation." They represented him as opining that "all progressive forces must unite to do away with the problem in Viet Nam," and pictured him as deeply worried about inoreas-

But the Chinese do not appear to be anxious to "do away with the problem of Viet-Nam." They seem satisfied with the idea that, although the war may be long, the Com-munist Viet in effect have it won and thus there is nothing to negotiate. Indeed, Peking probably would welcome the prospect of U.S. resource being sapped in Viet Nam.

The war is likely to become more costly in lives and ma-terial, and this can put a heavy strain on American pa-tience. The Chinese leadership appears to be outraged that the Soviets are not willing to apply new strains.

Canadians appear to be rather lukewarm in their concern over this country's 100-year anniversary in 1967. The public apathy, complained about in some centres, is reflected right across the country.

Only about three-in-10 of the people (27 per cent) profess to being "very interested" in the centennial celebrations. Thirty-eight per cent say they are somewhat interested and 22 per cent for the property and 22 per cent for the

Overhead Runs High On 7,000-Mile Trip

Adventurer, marathon cyclist, outdoorsman?

How do you classify a man who spends four months pedalling a bike from San Francisco to Anchorage and return.

Passing through Victoria today, 28-year-old John Veloz, San Francisco, says he pushed, pulled, carried and dragged his bicycle through 7,000 miles of the "happiest four months of my life."

He "got fed up" with his dreary life this spring. In a matter of days he quit his job, bought a bike and camping equipment, rounded up a teammate and set a course for Anchorage. They departed May 1.

His friend gave up the adventure at 150 Mile House and caught a plane ride. John pedalled all the way to Alaska and started back July 8 after a week of rest.

He said it was a terrific trip even though he repaired 46 punctures. He went through six tires, two rims and 126

kes. He also wore out three pairs of pants. His adventure cost him $350.

Businessman Predicts His Ruin

Joseph S. Carlow today prediced he will become a ward of the government for the rest of his life because he is not permitted to post signs on Trans-Canada Highway

The 45-year-old former truck farm operator says he can't work because of an ar-thritic condition and his tourist attraction at 2329 Millstream Road can't make money without signs. They advertise his frontier village amusement centre.

He opened the 21/2-acre project half a mile north of the highway, last May.

Mr. Carlow put up a turnoff sign Friday and said he enjoyed an 80 per cent increase in business until an RCMP officer took it down Saturday night.

He has been summonsed to appear in magistrate's court Tuesday morning to face a charge of violating the anti-sign provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act.

"I'm going to become a ward of the government," he told the Times. "I can't work and I'm going to lose this place. They'll have to keep me the rest of my life and I told them so."

Mr. Carlow said that motels and campsites are permitted under the legislation to erect turn-off signs and he is thinking of turning part of his property into a campsite so he will be entitled to put up a highway

"But I don't know where I'm going to get the money.

And I don't see how I can survive without those signs -the tourists just don't know I'm here."

Blinded By Lights Too Bright at Night?

By Penny Saver

My pet peeve for the week is night drivers! Why is it that My pet peeve for the week is night drivers! Why is it that people driving at night always leave their lights on high beam when they are following someone else—at least it seems that way to me! Then all you can see when looking in your rear-view mirror is a great white blur of light. It's nearly as bad as driving toward another motorist with your lights on brightly. Gr-r-I I shall now climb down off my soapbox and tell you about something which can correct this problem.

Selling for 45 cents is a shade for rear-view mirrors which reduces the glare of lights shining in the glass. Made of unbreakable smoked plastic, this is made with two tiny wire clips which fit over the mirror and hold the shade fast. No amount of jolting or bumping will dislodge it, either!

For day driving, just flip the shade up-it's right out of the way. Or if bright sunlight bouncing from the car behind you is a problem, leave the shade on the mirror. You can't afford to take chances with safety.

Campers—here's something for you . . . or for those who are going on long-motoring trips. A careless match, a cigarette accidently dropped—anything can start a fire—at a campsite or even in your car.

Well, here's something made especially for travelling to keep handy in case of such an emergency. It is a car fire extinguisher, selling for $7.95. This is filled with a highly-pressurized dry chemical which sprays to a 10-foot distance Hook it onto a flashlight attachment in your car. The attachments, selling at 79 cents, are sturdy and hold the object tightly, without allowing it to slip.

Fasten the attachment to the steering column of the car and your extinguisher is within easy reach in case of emergencies but out of the way while you are driving.

If you are interested in finding out where to buy these safety articles, give Penny a call at 382-3131.

Many of them stick to a reducing diet for long periods, until they reach their ideal weight. However they will not succeed if they must be a social recluse to do so, or if the diet does not satisfy the varied needs of the body.

The Prudent Diet has thany advantages. It gives you a wide choice of foods. You can enjoy eating with your family and eat most of the items the others eat.

We go back 30-odd years to the days before there were any ways to there were any ways to ask for aces. Our hero is the late Sherman Stearns of New York, winner of several na-tional titles in the '30s and one of the greatest players of all time. The game was rubber bridge. He said to himself, have no spades," and the words "Two spades" came out of his routh. He tried to co cect to four hearts, six hearts and six no-trump, but eventually found himself at seven no-trump when his parther persisted with spades. North had to give up Opening lead-Q & at that point and Sher-man proceeded to play the hand. As you can see the contract was an apparently eight-day manned space shot A team of 15 newsmen, assigned by all networks, will report the continuing story of the Gemini-Titan 5 shot. According to information from CBS News, pool facilities will broadcast in color on all TV networks the launching of the two-man rocket and .White House reactions to the mission and, also, for the first time, will accept full responsibility for all TV coverage from Cape Kennedy, the Houston Manned Space Centre, and various remote points of interest such as homes of astronauts'

Stephen

Members of the pool arrangement, management of which rotates with each major mission, are: the American Broadcasting Company's radio and TV networks; the CBS television network and CBS radio network; Mutual Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Company's radio and television networks.

This will be the first time that all TV operators (except for film cameras) at Cape Kennedy, at the Houston Spacecraft Centre, and at various remote

For the first time, the U.S. networks will pool their dergies and resources for coverage of this month's gain and a space shot.

A team of 15 newsmen, assigned by a letter of the Great of their own TV personnel and equipment at these locations, using pool personnel, equipment and programming to supplement their coverage.

To top that coverage, an attempt will also be made to cover the recovery of the GT capsule by means of Early Bird communications satellite relay.

Under the rlan for live coverage of this aspect, ITT World Communications, Inc., would instal equipment on board the recovery craft, the aircraft carrier USS Lake Champlain.

USS Lake Champlain.

The cameras, as well as on the carrier, will also be mounted in recovery helicopters equipped to transmit pictures via microwave back to the carrier.

The ITT ground station aboard the carrier would then transmit the pictures to Early Bird, which in turn would beam them to the ground station at Andover, Me., for land-line transmission to New York and all three networks. It's an ambitious program and one that had to be brought about. Now is the time finally realized by all networks. Rather than fight each other with something different in an attempt to gain ratings, they will now be able to provide the millions of viewers throughout North America, and possibly Europe, with a concentrated ef-fort that should improve the final picture.

WANTED APARTMENT SITE IN BEARS HAMPER FIREMEN IN GARBAGE DUMP FIRE

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)-Smokey the Bear would not

Firemen said four bears hampered their efforts to put out a blaze in a garbage dump here-Sunday, and had to be driven off time and again with rocks.

As the men turned over the debris with shovels to get at the blaze the bears insisted on joining in.

It took the men four hours to battle the bears and the fire to a standstill.
